

Welcome to NavigateLA

NavigateLA is an electronic mapping system used by the Department of Public Works and Building and Safety in their public counter operations to provide the timely and responsive service that the City's customers have come to expect. With over 35,000 visits per month to the City's public counters, the City is able to quickly answer questions and print out instant reports for the customers. City staff can also immediately print the map of the requested area and cut and insert it into a form or letter for the customer.

NavigateLA was developed as an easy to use desktop application that combines the power of electronic mapping with over 200 layers of data, linked databases, and reports. NavigateLA was developed by the City of Los Angeles' Department of Public Works - Bureau of Engineering, using ESRI ArcGIS Server internet tools.

The Department of Public Works is pleased to be able to provide direct access to this information to the public. We believe that the customer is most effectively served when their ability to conduct business with the City is facilitated in a manner that is most convenient for them.
